A Match Made in Heaven

Red wine and steak are a perfect pairing because of the compounds that combine on our palates when we put them together – namely : fat, protein and tannins.

Tannins are compounds in wine derived from grape skins and seeds and oak barrels. They have a drying quality in the mouth. Protein and fat in steak offer a wet or lubricating feeling on the palate. The dance of steak and wine as the drying and lubricating characteristics balance each other out and cause a pleasant sensation.

Some science is also at play. Molecules in the steak's fat have a softening effect on tannins, making wine feel softer and smoother, while the tannins soften the fat and bring out more flavour in the meat.

Wine with a heavier tannin profile, like Cabernet Sauvignon or Syrah & Shiraz, are better suited to well marbled cuts such as Japanese A5 Wagyu Sirloin, Butter Aged Scotch or New York Strip, while lighter tannins, such as those in Pinot Noir, Merlot, Malbec are more suited to leaner cuts like Eye Fillet and Dry Aged Rump.
